
From: Price David
Sent: Friday, November 09, 2007 1:36 AM
To: Jones Steve
Subject: Fw: Alstom

Thought you could use a funny one tonight.

----- Original Message -----
From: Downey William
To: Price David
Sent: Thu Nov 08 16:51:20 2007
Subject: Re: Alstom

Mike Chesser says he never said a damn thing. As far as I am concerned -- go ahead.

----- Original Message -----
From: Price David
To: Downey William
Cc: Bundren Gail
Sent: Thu Nov 08 00:44:53 2007
Subject: Alstom

Bill,

Alstom (Lexa) told me yesterday that they bought winter jackets in August 2006 for KCPL folks but KCPL management told them that we were not allowed to wear them. Therefore they remain in storage. Brent told me that Mike C. has an issue with garments that have both KCPL and Alstom logos on the them. Is this the company position? Do you want to see a photo of the front of the jacket?

It is quite normal for field folks to wear outerwear with supplier logos on it. Lexa said these jackets cost about $150 each (and are still in their shipping boxes) so assuming they can be worn at the site, your approval to accept them per our code of conduct is also requested.

Sorry to bother you with such a seemingly simple matter but ot appears this is a very sensitive subject.

Regards,

Dave

Staff Exhibit No. 269
Date 1-24-11 Reporter TM
File No. ER-2010-0355

KCPLP0025964