LIST OF ISSUES

1. Does Missouri law, i.e. Section 393.140(11), RSMo, give the Commission the authority to grant variances to provisions of KCPL’s tariffs?

2. Does 4 CSR 240-20.050(2) of the Commission’s regulations, which provides that “each residential and commercial unit in a multiple-occupancy building construction of which has begun after June 1, 1981 shall have installed a separate electric meter for each residential or commercial unit”, require the Cathedral Square Towers building located at 444 W. 12th Street in Kansas City, Missouri to have installed a separate electric meter for each residential or commercial unit?

3. If (a) the Commission does have the authority to grant variances to provisions of KCPL's tariffs, and (b) 4 CSR 240-20.050(2) does not require the Cathedral Square Towers building to have installed a separate electric meter for each unit, then should the Commission grant CSC its requested variance to the pertinent provisions of KCPL's tariffs requiring separate metering, i.e. 5.01 and 5.03 of its General Rules and Regulations Applying to Electric Service, and permit the installation of a master electric meter for the Cathedral Square Towers?

4. If the Commission grants CSC the variance from the separate meter requirements of the KCPL tariffs, would the Cathedral Square Towers building qualify for KCPL's Residential Service rate schedule or its General Service rate schedule?
