

“The City Council of the City of Kirksville, Missouri, enthusiastically supports the economic benefits that will result from the construction and operation of the High Prairie Wind Farm project. While not located within the City of Kirksville itself, the project will nonetheless bring skilled, high-paying jobs to our region. This project will also benefit the property owners involved in the project through approximately $3 million a year in lease payments. New jobs, combined with the lease payments to the property owners involved in the project, will provide more discretionary income for our local community and wider region. The City of Kirksville is Northeast Missouri’s economic hub, and as such, our entire community will benefit from this additional revenue.”
