Subject: Looking to install solar?

Good news! My business partner Paul and I have launched a website called CompareMySolar.com that lets you get instant estimates from local solar contractors who would be happy to install solar on your roof. Just enter your zip code, and you'll instantly have realistic estimates, and if you enter your address it'll show you a Google Maps image of your house, and you can quickly request specific customized quotes for your own roof within minutes – all from the comfort of your computer, and all free. It's "live" in Missouri now – check it out!

If you live in Missouri and are interested in having solar installed, check it out. Go to the website, enter your zip code, then click “refine results for my own roof” in the upper-right-hand corner, enter your mailing address where it says “find your house”, then follow the instructions to request a specific quote from 1, 2, or 3 solar installers.

If you don't live in Missouri, not to worry! We'll expand the site to your state soon. Please check out the site anyway – you can enter my zip code (65201) to get a feel for how the site works.

Either way, please visit the website and let me know what you think! The website is fully functional, but it just “launched” last month, so I'd love to hear feedback about your experience navigating the site. We're always open to suggestions on how to improve the user experience.

Keep on the Sunny Side,

PJ Wilson
