Chuck,

Below is the anticipated bill. The exact date and time with the PSC I don't know. Also I'm listing some websites which can better explain than me what's going on, <http://missourilandownersalliance.org/>, <http://www.blockgbemo.com/index.php>, <http://www.mofb.org/NewsMedia/News.aspx?articleID=473>, <http://www.blockricl.com/>

Chuck it just isn't right that a for profit corporation can get public utility status in order to use eminent domain and take your property. The person I've been talking to Marilyn O'Bannon in Monroe county, she is a neighbor to the farm I own. She is very passionate and informed on this issue. If you or your staff would like more information her number is 573-473-5962.

To me it seems like if Missouri allows for profit corporation eminent domain, then we will be labeled as an easy pickings for other corporations, and will a bad precedence for future cases.

EMLA, Doing Business As, Show Me Concerned Landowners Membership Information letter is also attached.

MO Farm Bureau: As you know, Missouri Farm Bureau filed to intervene in PSC case last week. Terry Jarrett, attorney for EMLA, will also be representing MFB. Also attached is Representative Hansen's letter to Missouri Farm Bureau.

MISSOURI HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

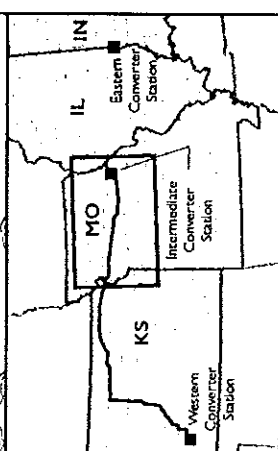

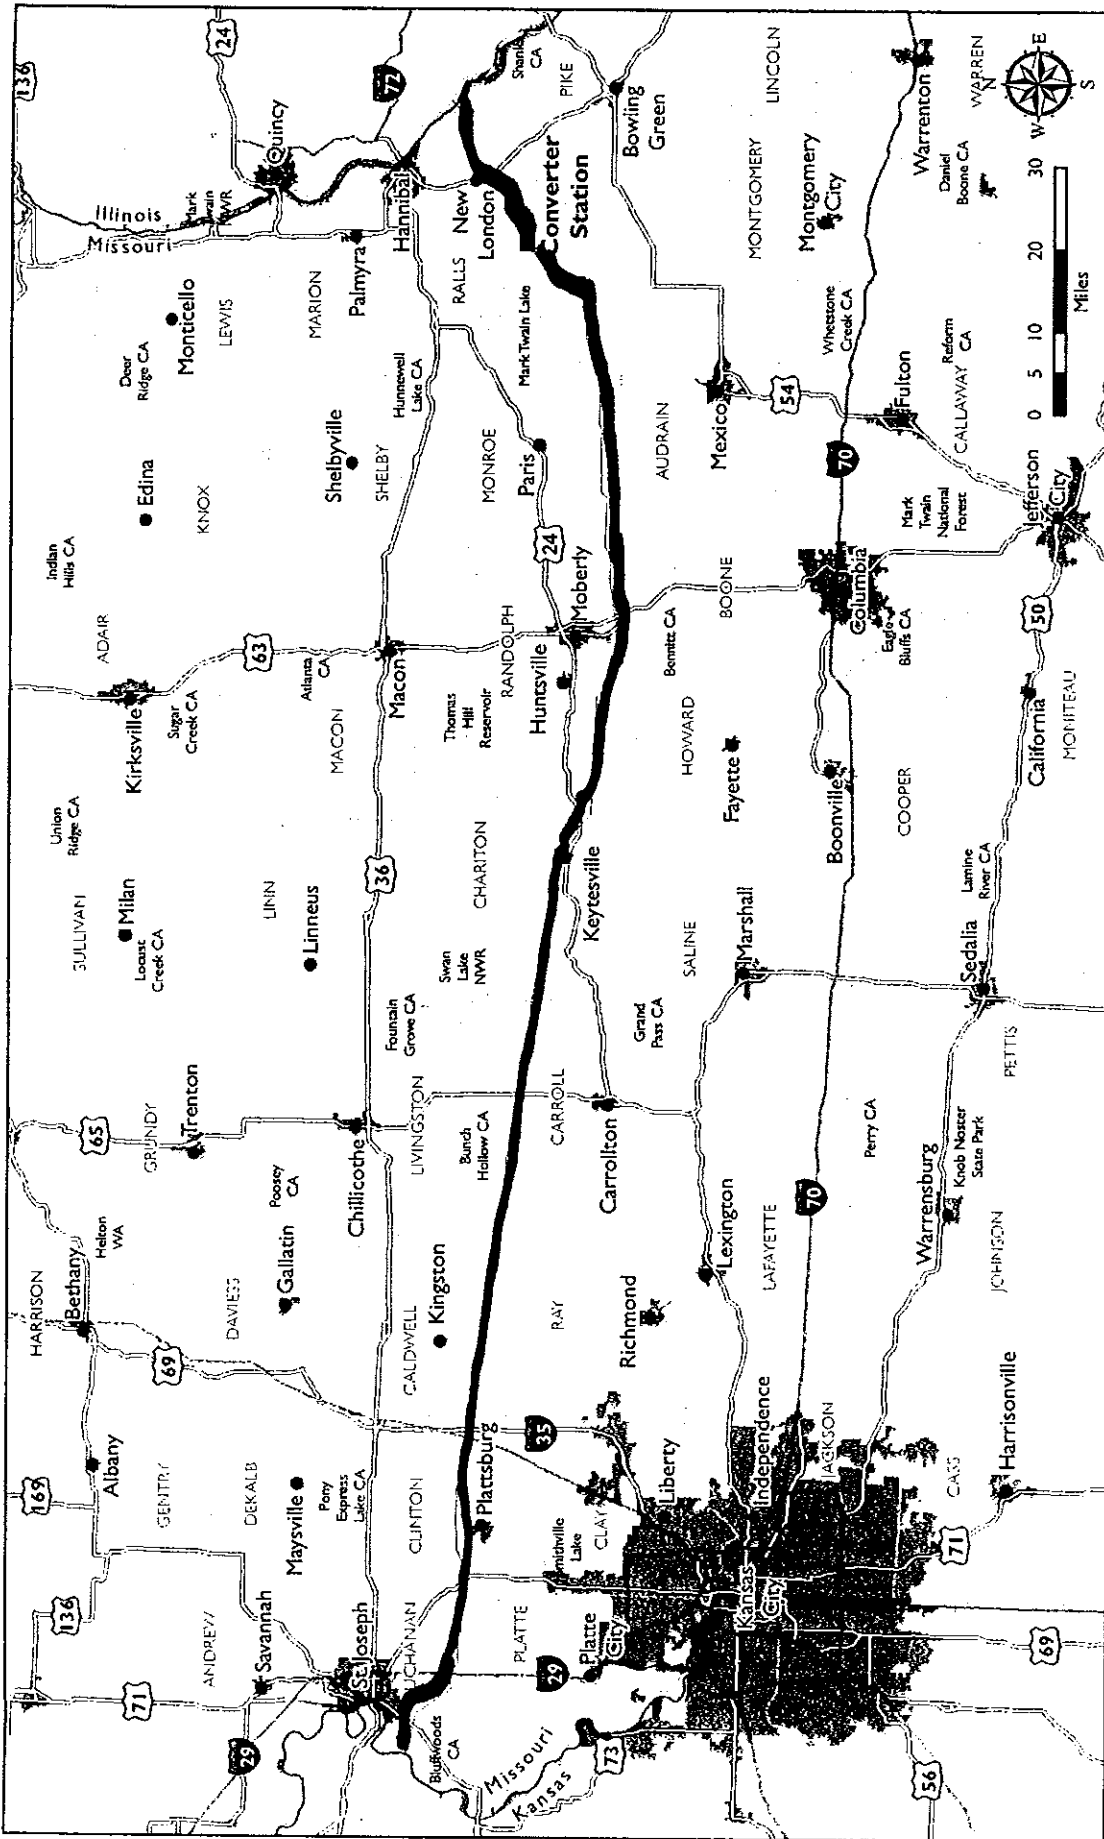

Jim Hansen
State Representative
District 40

Dear President Hurst:

I am writing to thank you for the Farm Bureau's opposition to the use of eminent domain for the proposed Grain Belt Express Clean Line Energy project. I, like you, have serious concerns about the threat of eminent domain abuse against farmers and property owners in my district. I have written a letter of opposition to the Missouri Public Service Commission regarding this issue and once again thank you for looking out for property owners in the state of Missouri.

All the best,

Jim Hansen
40th District
State Representative
