ORDER ESTABLISHING LOCAL CUSTOMER HEARINGS

On April 14, 1995, the Commission issued an order granting intervention in this case and establishing a procedural schedule for evidentiary hearings. In that order the Commission indicated that several local customer hearings would be held to allow customers of local exchange companies an opportunity to make statements concerning the two proposals. The first proposed plan would establish an overlay plan whereby new customers after July 1, 1996, would be given a different area code than existing customers. Customers in the exchange where this overlay occurred would then be required to dial ten digits for all calls, including local call. The second proposed plan would create a new area code within the area now covered by the current 314 area code, which would require the customers in the new area code to change their telephone numbers.

To allow for customer comment, five local customer hearings are scheduled. These are:
