Would it be possible to get an announcement in the tribune promoting our rally on the 11th, 3:45pm to 5:30pm at MAWC headquarters 727 Craig Rd. Creve Coeur . Thanks.

Alton, Ill. — IBEW Local 649 Business Manager Jack Tueth (left) shakes hands with Bill Stewart, his pro-union next-door neighbor and co-owner of Ted's Motorcycle World in Alton. ## Ted's Motorcycle World in Alton is pro-union dealer

Alton — All union members interested in motorcycles — especially Harley-Davidsons — are strongly urged to check out Ted's Motorcycle World.

Ted's Motorcycle World, 4103 Humbert Rd., is co-owned by Bill and Melinda Stewart, who are among the most solid promoters of union workmanship in the region.

Everything they do to expand their business has been done with all-union labor: They have built a 42,000-square-foot showroom, a 6,000-square-foot warehouse and a 3,000-square-foot diagnostic testing center — with all-union labor.

"We're union all the way, we do all of our construction union and, in turn, most of our customers are union," said Bill Stewart.

"It only makes sense to build union," Stewart said. "You get a better job done at no extra cost and no hassles — and you only have to have the job done once."

Most of the customers at Ted's Motorcycle World are members of labor unions throughout the metropolitan area.

And thanks to them, Ted's Motorcycle World has increased its business volume six-fold since 1997.

Now it is the largest Harley-Davidson dealer in total sales and size of facilities in the St. Louis metro area.

And it's only natural that a pro-union business like Ted's Motorcycle World would have a close relationship with its next-door neighbor, IBEW Local 649.

Local 649 Business Manager Jack Tueth and the Stewarts are close friends. They trust each other.

For years, the two establishments have swapped parcels of land — based solely on handshake agreements.

And when Local 649 celebrated its 100th anniversary in October 2009, Ted's provided — at cost — a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, which the union raffled off and used the proceeds to pay for the anniversary party.

In turn, the leadership at IBEW Local 649 is doing everything possible to promote its next-door neighbor.

"We want everyone to know Ted's Motorcycle World is as pro-union as a business can get," Tueth said.

"We encourage all union members to keep that in mind when buying a motorcycle."

"We strongly support all workers and labor unions through our construction work and other projects," Stewart said. "And while we realize these are hard economic times for everyone, we would greatly appreciate it if anyone — especially union members — who are interested in a Harley-Davidson would check us out first."

See the Ted's Motorcycle World ad on page 15 of this issue.

Come to Utility Workers 335 rally July 11 to protest imposed contract

Creve Coeur — A rally to protest a contract imposed by Missouri American Water Co. on its employees will be held at 3:45 p.m. Monday, July 11, at the company headquarters, 727 Craig Rd., just south of Olive Boulevard.

Missouri American Water Co. told the employees' union, Utility Workers Local 335, that the company will impose its "last, best and final offer" on the day of the rally.

"We would greatly appreciate a show of solidarity and support from all our union brothers and sisters throughout the area, and we urge everyone who can make it to come to the July 11 rally," said Local 335 President Tom Schneider.

The rally will be similar to one held June 7 at the company headquarters, at which members of Utility Workers Local 335 were joined by almost 100 members of other unions in a public protest.

Protesters made the public aware of consumer rate hikes and steep employee cuts planned by the water company.

The local rally was part of a nationwide series of actions held at other water companies owned by New Jersey-based parent American Water Co.,

the largest for-profit water utility in the U.S.

The Creve Coeur rally had several purposes:

- To alert the general public about planned rate hikes that will affect customers in St. Louis County and St. Charles County.

- To protest benefits cuts in the national contract with American Water Co.

- To call for an end to wage cuts and contracting-out jobs at Missouri Water Co.

- To call attention to hefty company profits and bonuses given to company officials including Missouri Water Co. President Frank Kartmann.

Laborers 42 officers back by acclamation

St. Louis — The officers of Laborers Local 42 recently were re-elected by acclamation by the membership. The officers included (standing, from left) Vice President Danny Jenkins, Executive Board Member Ted Feller, Field Organizer Jeff O'Connell, Recording Secretary Raymond Linehan, Business Manager Brandon Flinn, Auditor Jeff Mack, Auditor Nick Pavia, Sergeant-at-Arms Bill Keaton and President Rich McLaughlin and (kneeling, from left) Executive Board Member Tom Wood and Auditor Charles Mesenbrink.

2011 Lincon MKS: It's what's inside that counts

By KEVIN WEAKS

My pappy said, "Son, you're gonna drive me to drinkin', if you don't stop drivin' that Hot Rod Lincoln."

With Mercury just a memory, like that golden oldie by Commander Cody and the Lost Planet Airmen, Ford has left it to Lincoln to fill the gap and has done so by offering an expanded model lineup that ranges from the Fusion-sized MKZ for the well-heeled Facebook crowd, to the elegant flagship Town Car to the Navigator SUV, which has more front grille space than Weber. Smack in the middle is the Lincoln MKS, Lincoln's full-size luxury sedan.

The MKS is based on Ford's D3 platform, which is shared with the current Ford Taurus and comes in front-wheel drive or optional all-wheel drive. The MKS is powered by a 3.7 L Duratec V6 mated to a 6-speed automatic transmission. For a little fun, the optional EcoBoost 3.5 L twin-turbo, direct injection V6 is also available. The MKS has a base MSRP of around $41,500 and is built at Ford's Chicago Assembly plant.

On outward appearances, the 2011 Lincoln MKS vaguely resembles a Ford Taurus, which is significantly less expensive. But if you want a Lincoln, you should expect to pay the price for the prestige it connotes.

Like the Taurus, the Lincoln MKS benefits from a spacious interior, a long list of standard features and a gigantic trunk. It compares with the Acura TL, Buick LaCrosse, Cadillac CTS or Hyundai Genesis. As one of two full-size sedans in the Lincoln lineup, the MKS complements the rear-wheel drive Town Car, in the same way that the final generation of the Lincoln Continental (1995-2002) did.

To further differentiate it from the Taurus, Ford has endowed the Lincoln MKS with the largest selection of technologies and comfort and convenience features in its class. The 2011 MKS comes in three trim levels: FWD, AWD and EcoBoost. The FWD and AWD models come standard with 18-inch alloy wheels, parking sensors, foglights, rain-sensing wipers, heated power sideview mirrors with memory, integrated blind-spot mirror and auto-dimming on the driver side, automatic headlamps, automatic high beams, keyless entry/ignition and a slick version of Ford's venerable touchpad entry system that's embedded in the base of the B-pillar.

Interior standard features include a power rear sunshade, cruise control, an auto-dimming rearview mirror, leather upholstery, power tilt-telescoping steering wheel, dual-zone automatic climate control, heated and cooled eight-way power front seats (with power lumbar), heated rear seats, driver memory settings, the Sync voice activation system (includes turn-turn directions), a THX-certified sound system with an in-dash six-disc MP3 changer, satellite radio and an auxiliary audio jack. The EcoBoost is similarly equipped but has a more powerful twin-turbocharged engine and 19-inch wheels.

The all-wheel-drive EcoBoost model is powered by a twin-turbocharged 3.5-liter V6 that makes 355 hp and 350 lb-ft of torque. The EcoBoost is considerably quicker and actually gets better fuel economy at 17/25/20. However, you'll find yourself punching the premium fuel button at the gas station as this is the grade recommended for the EcoBoost engine.

The MKS's platform-mate, the Ford Taurus, offers the same powertrain and many available technological features, starting at an MSRP of $10,000 less than the MKS.

But then again, it ain't a Lincoln. Contact Kevin Weeks at kweeks@labortribune.com.

OSHA fines Honeywell $119,000

Metropolis, Ill. (PAI) — The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has proposed fining Honeywell $119,000 for the December 2010 release of hydrogen fluoride from its uranium-processing plant here.

The accident occurred during a lockout of workers that just passed the one-year mark.

The mishap also underscored the danger of using scab labor in a plant that requires sophisticated and trained workers.

To make things worse, Steelworkers Local 7-669 said the company and union reached a tentative contract agreement on June 6, and then Honeywell reneged the next day.

"Honeywell can now end the lockout with a telephone call or fax over the final conclusive issues," said Local 7-669 President Darrell Lillie.

Honeywell locked out the unionists, all members of a former Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers local.

They did not agree to Honeywell's take-back demands, particularly its cuts and almost virtual elimination of overtime pay, Lillie said at the June 25 anniversary rally.

The lockout started June 28, 2010. The plant normally employs 228 workers.

Meanwhile, with "replacement workers" trying to run the Metropolis plant, the Dec. 22 hydrogen fluoride release was the second notable accident since Honeywell locked out the unionists.

The other one, last September, saw accumulated hydrogen reacting with fluorine during a venting of the plant — and shook the neighborhood with a loud boom.

"Fortunately, the accident occurred in a non-regulated area of operation, meaning away from the handling of yellow cake uranium," the union said.

Hearing loss can sneak up on you

By KEVIN WEAKS

Three retirees, each with a hearing loss, were taking a walk one fine March day. One remarked to the other, "Windy, ain't it?" "No," the second man replied, "It's Thursday." The third man chimed in, "So am I. Let's have a beer."

As we age, our hearing gradually deteriorates — sometimes so gradually that we aren't even aware that we're blasting the TV and talking too loudly in restaurants about our hemorrhoids. According to the National Institutes of Health, an estimated one-third of Americans between the ages of 65 and 75 and close to half of those older than 75 have some degree of hearing loss.

Doctors believe that heredity and chronic exposure to loud noises — like if you're a jackhammer operator or wedding DJ — are the main factors that contribute to hearing loss over time. Other factors, such as earwax blockage, can prevent your ears from conducting sounds as well as they should.

You can't reverse hearing loss, but you don't have to live without sound, either. You and your doctor or a hearing specialist like those at Hear USA, whose ad you see on these pages, can take steps to improve what you hear.

HOW YOUR EARS WORK

Hearing occurs when sound waves reach the structures inside your ear, where the sound wave vibrations are converted into nerve signals that your brain recognizes as sound. Your ear consists of three major areas: the outer ear, middle ear and inner ear. Sound waves pass through the outer ear and cause vibrations at the eardrum. The eardrum and three small bones of the middle ear — the hammer, anvil and stirrup — amplify the vibrations as they travel to the inner ear. There, the vibrations pass through fluid in the cochlea, a snail-shaped structure in the inner ear.

Attached to nerve cells in the cochlea are thousands of tiny hairs that help translate sound vibrations into electrical signals that are transmitted to your brain. The vibrations of different sounds affect these tiny hairs in different ways, causing the nerve cells to send different signals to your brain. That's how you distinguish one sound from another.

IS THIS YOU?

Because it can be so gradual, you may not even realize that you are losing your hearing. Here are some signs and symptoms to look for:

- Muffled quality of speech and other sounds.
- Difficulty understanding words, especially against background noise or in a crowd of people.
- Frequently asking others to speak more slowly, clearly and loudly.
- Needing to turn up the volume of the television or radio.
- Withdrawal from conversations.
- Avoidance of some social settings.

DO YOUR EARS RING?

A common condition that affects as many as 37 million people is tinnitus — roaring, buzzing, clicking, whistling, hissing, or high pitched ringing in the ears or inside the head. Tinnitus may be constant or occur intermittently in one or both ears and varies greatly among individuals ranging from a mild occasional sound to an ever present chronic condition. Some people report their tinnitus is so bothersome that it interferes with their quality of life.

Many people with hearing loss also experience tinnitus although it is possible to have normal hearing and still have tinnitus. If tinnitus is suspected, a medical evaluation and a hearing test by licensed professionals should be conducted. It is important to have a medical examination to determine if there is an underlying condition causing the tinnitus.

Since tinnitus is a symptom associated with various disorders, there is no single treatment that will help everyone. The most effective treatment is the removal or prevention of the cause. Unfortunately, the cause of tinnitus usually cannot be identified or corrected. Therefore, tinnitus itself may need to be treated. There are a number of treatment options available including the use of amplification (hearing aid), which allows the wearer to hear background sounds in the environment, which takes away the focus on the tinnitus.

Now hear this:

Here are some interesting facts compiled by the folks at Hear USA:

- Hearing loss is called 'the invisible handicap' because there are no outward signs of difficulty or disorder and the loss is almost always gradual, usually over a period of years, and there is no pain.
- Among seniors, hearing loss is the most prevalent medical condition, following arthritis and hypertension.
- People with diabetes are twice as likely to have hearing loss than those who do not have diabetes.
- Smokers and overweight individuals are also at increased risk for hearing loss.
- Men who regularly use aspirin, acetaminophen and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs experience more hearing loss.
- Also, men who take phosphodiesterase (PDE) inhibitors are twice as likely to develop hearing loss as men who do not.

You can find more facts about hearing at www.hearusa.com. This helpful website includes frequently asked questions and special sections where you can evaluate your hearing and that of a loved one.

GET YOURSELF CHECKED OUT
If everything you've read so far has made you think, "Hey, that's me," then do something about it. Make an appointment with your doctor to be sure that nothing really serious is going on. Contact a hearing specialist like Hear USA. They can help you hear what you're missing.

Missouri to get $948,385 in pharmaceutical settlement

Jefferson City — Attorney General Chris Koster said the state of Missouri will receive $948,385 from a settlement his office and 37 other state attorneys general reached with two pharmaceutical companies.

The companies — Glaxo-SmithKline, LLC (GSK) and SB Pharmco Puerto Rico (SB Pharmco) — will pay the state a total of $40.75 million as part of the settlement.

The settlement stems from allegations that GSK and SB Pharmco engaged in substandard manufacturing practices of several medications produced at a plant located in Cidra, Puerto Rico.

"Pharmaceutical companies will be held accountable for practices that endanger the health of consumers" Koster said.

"This settlement will cause drug manufacturers to review their production practices and ensure that unsafe products are not put into the marketplace," he said.

Koster alleges that GSK and SB Pharmco engaged in unfair and deceptive practices when they manufactured and distributed:

- Certain batches of Kytril, a sterile drug used to prevent nausea and vomiting caused by cancer chemotherapy and radiation therapy.

- Bactroban, an antibiotic ointment used to treat skin infections.

- Paxil CR, the controlled-release formulation of the popular antidepressant drug, Paxil.

- Avandamet, a combination Type II diabetes drug.

The companies used substandard manufacturing processes in producing certain lots of these drugs.

GSK and SB Pharmco closed their Cidra facility in 2009. As a result of the settlement, GSK and SB Pharmco are enjoined from making false, misleading or deceptive claims regarding the manufacturing of any of the type of drugs formerly manufactured at the Cidra facility.

The adulterated batches of drugs covered by this agreement have been recalled for many years.

Consumers who have questions about their medications should contact their physician or pharmacist.
