A. General

1. Call

A toll call is a request by a customer for the establishment of a telephone connection for which a specific toll charge is made under the terms of the Message Toll Telephone Service Tariff.

a. In attempting to complete a toll call it is not intended except in emergencies that the operators shall pass to the called station any information as to the probable nature of the intended conversation.

2. Message

A toll message is a completed toll call.

3. Timing of Messages

a. Length of conversation is the elapsed time between the registration of time at the beginning and end of conversation.

(1) Station-to-Station Messages

(a) Where the calling party is holding the line the starting time is recorded as soon as the called station answers.

(b) Where the calling party is not holding the line the starting time is recorded as soon as anyone at either station speaks to and receives a response of any nature from anyone at the other station. In a case in which the calling telephone is answered by someone other than the party originating the call, if the person answering does not speak to the called station, timing does not start until the calling party is reached and either party speaks to and receives a response of any nature from the other.

3. Timing of Messages (continued)

- (c) Where the calling party, after placing a station-to-station call to a branch exchange, requests the attendant to obtain a particular station, the timing starts when the branch exchange attendant answers.

Station-to-Station service contemplates connection with the called station which in this case, is a branch exchange system. Consequently, the charge is for the period of connection with the branch exchange and is not effected by the success or failure or delay in reaching desired individuals or branch exchange stations.

(2) Person-to-Person Messages

- (a) On calls placed for a specified person timing starts as soon as the calling party speaks to and receives a response of any nature from the called party (or another party acceptable to the calling party) or vice versa.
- (b) On calls placed for a specified station reached through a branch exchange, when no particular person is specified the timing starts when the conversation starts between the person calling and the particular branch exchange station requested.

4. Cutoff after conversation begins

The elapsed time in re-establishing the connection is deducted in computing the charges; this is done by adding the elapsed time of the two conversations from which one minute is deducted to allow for repetition.

4. Cutoff after conversation begins (continued)

a. On station-to-station calls handles at the toll board the call is re-established on a person-to-person basis (between the parties who were talking at the time of the cutoff), although the station-to-station rate continues to apply.

5. Poor transmission, unable to hear, etc.

The elapsed time in re-establishing the connection is deducted in computing the charges, and an allowance is made for poor transmission during the period of connection.

- a. If the customer did not receive the equivalent of any normal service, no charge is made.
- b. If the difficulty seems to be with the calling party's line or instrument and he refuses to go to another station but still desires to talk, the call is completed and a deduction is made from the actual time of conversation on account of the trouble but in no case will the charge be less than that for the initial period.
- c. If service is unsatisfactory because of conditions for which the Company does not assume responsibility, such as inability of one party to understand or speak the same language as the other party, etc., a charge is made for the number of minutes indicated by the timing device.

6. Limited Conversation

The Company reserves the right to limit the length of conversation, when necessary in times of emergency resulting in a shortage of facilities.

- a. On both sent paid and collect calls where it has been necessary to limit conversation and the calling party wishes to continue the conversation later, the elapsed time of the second call is added to that of the first for the purpose of computing the charge.

B. STATION-to-STATION SERVICE

1. Calls to branch exchanges (including hotels.)

a. When the calling party, having placed a station-to-station call to a branch exchange, requests the branch exchange attendant at the called number to obtain a particular station the regular station-to-station charges apply even though such calls encounter a don't answer, busy or out-of-order condition at the branch exchange station or stations.

2. Failure to start conversation.

a. When the calling party is holding the line, the starting time of conversation is recorded on the ticket without verifying the number or announcing the call as soon as the called station answers. If conversation does not start the operator verifies the number reached and starts the timing anew.

b. When the calling party is not holding the line, the starting time is not recorded until conversation begins since the calling party may not answer the telephone when called back.

3. Party at called station, who is qualified to talk, refused to talk.

a. On sent-paid messages the call may be canceled, in which case there is no charge or may be continued on a station-to-station basis, if the calling party so requests.

b. On collect calls refusal to talk at the called station is considered the same as refusal to accept the charges.

A person who is not qualified to talk is considered to be anyone who cannot take a message or answer questions, such as a person who cannot speak the language of the calling party, a young child, or anyone who merely happens to be temporarily on the premises, such as a workman or cleaner.

- 4. No charge is made in case the called station does not answer, is busy, out of order, disconnected, temporarily disconnected or is answered by a party who is not qualified to talk.

- a. If the calling party wishes a messenger sent because the called station is out of order, the conversation time is charged at the regular station-to-station rate. However, he is assessed the actual amount spent for messenger service regardless of whether or not conversation takes place.

D. Collection of Charges
