The point of assumption of water service shall be at the property line or outdoor meter setting. Service charges for turn-on of service or turn-off of service are set forth in the Schedule of Service Charges.
- (b) A Customer who has made application for water service to a unit shall be held liable for all water service provided to him at said unit until the Customer notifies the Company in writing to discontinue service.
- (c) Deposits: The Company shall have the right at lawful times to require the Customer to make a reasonable deposit, in amount not to exceed the estimated bill for one billing period plus 30 days, to secure the prompt payment of bills. Interest at the rate of six percent (6%) per annum, payable upon return of the deposit, will be paid for the time such deposit was held by the Company unless such period of time be less than twelve (12) months. Such deposits shall be refunded at the termination of service after all charges that may be due and payable by the Customer have been paid or when the Customer has demonstrated prompt payments for service during twelve (12) consecutive billing periods. The Company may require a security deposit or other guarantee as a condition of continued service due to any of the following:
- (1) The service of the customer has been discontinued by the utility for nonpayment of a delinquent account not in dispute.
 - (2) In an unauthorized manner, the customer interfered with or diverted the service of the utility situated on or about or delivered to the customer's premises.

- (a) All permanent service connections shall be metered. The Company's installed meter shall be the standard for measuring water used to determine the bill.
- (b) All meters and meter installations shall be furnished, installed, maintained and removed by the Company and shall remain its property.
- (c) The Company shall have the right to determine on the basis of the Customer's stated flow requirements the type and size of meter to be installed and location of same. If flow requirements increase or decrease subsequent to installation and a larger or smaller meter is requested by the Customer, the cost of installing such meter shall be paid by the Customer.
- (d) Service to any one Customer shall be furnished through a single metering installation. Where a building is occupied by more than one tenant, the building shall be served by one meter. The Customer may rearrange piping at his own expense so as to separate the units and meter his tenants as he chooses, then divide the bill accordingly.
- (e) The meters and meter installations furnished by the Company shall remain its property, and the owners of premises wherein they are located shall be held responsible for their safekeeping and the carelessness of said owner, his agent, or tenant. For failure to protect same against damage, the Company may refuse to supply water until the Company is paid for such damage. The amount of the charge shall be the cost of the necessary replacement parts and the labor cost necessary to make the repair.

MISSOURI

Public Service Commission

- (a) Whenever any test by the Company of a meter in service or upon its removal from service shall show such meter to have an average error more than five percent (5%) on the test streams prescribed by the Commission, the Company shall adjust the Customer's bills by the amount of the actual average error of the meter and not the difference between the allowable error and the error as found. The period of adjustment on account of the under-registration or over-registration shall be determined as follows:
- (1) Where the period of error can be shown, the adjustment shall be made for such period.
 - (2) Where the period of error cannot be shown, the error fund shall be considered to have existed for three (3) months preceding the test.
- (b) If the meter is found on any such test to under-register, the Company may render a bill to the Customer concerned for the estimated consumption not covered by bills previously rendered during the period of inaccuracy as above outlined. Such action shall be taken only when the Company was not at fault for allowing the inaccurate meter to remain in service.
- (c) If the meter is found faster than allowable, the Company shall refund to the Customer concerned any overcharge caused thereby during the period of inaccuracy as above defined. Said refund may, at the Company's option, be in the form of a credit to the Customer's bill.

- (a) This rule shall govern the extension of the Company's water mains after the effective date hereof which are necessary to serve customers within its service area. For purposes of this rule, enlargement or expansion of existing facilities necessary for service to new customers, for which the system was not originally designed, shall be considered an extension.
- (b) When a request is made for an extension of water mains, or the Company determines that an extension must be made, the Company shall first determine the closest adequate source of water in its existing distribution system. The Company will then determine the sizes of mains needed and will make an estimate of the cost of proposed extension. The estimate shall include "estimable costs" such as cost of pipe, valves, fittings, booster stations, storage facilities, other material, necessary reconstruction of existing facilities, construction labor, planning, supervision, inspection, engineering, insurance, tools, accounting expense and other associated direct costs. An itemization of the estimate shall be available. The estimate shall not include specific amounts for "inestimable costs", i.e. those which are not readily capable of being estimated such as rock excavation, tunneling, and paving, but shall indicate that such are a possibility, and that actual amounts expended for such "inestimable costs" shall be included in the actual and final cost.
- (c) Prospective customers who desire water service shall apply for service under Rule 4. One or more of the applicants, or the applicants' authorized agent, shall enter into a contract with the Company for the extension of the Company's mains. If the estimated cost of the work in the "estimable cost" category as defined in Rule 14 (c) is greater than the completed and final actual cost as ascertained by the Company's accounting department, the Company shall refund the difference within 30 days of such determination. If the completed and final actual cost of the work in the "estimable cost" category is greater than the estimate, the Company shall be responsible for those costs. - (1) A "Customer Fair Share Cost" shall be collected in advance from each new residential customer taking water service directly from the extension, excluding applicant(s) as party to the contract. For residential customers connecting to a main extended by a party other than a developer, the "Customer Fair Share Cost" is equal to the cost of the project divided by the number of customers connected at the beginning of the calendar year, minus the "Company Participation Refund". The "Customer Fair Share Cost" for areas excluded from such cost in the contract. For commercial or industrial customers, the "Customer Fair Share Cost" will be determined on a case-by-case basis.
- (2) A "Company Participation Refund" of $50 will be made for each residential water service connection made under a service agreement from said extension, including applicant(s) as party to the contract. The Company Participation Refund for Commercial and Industrial customers shall be based upon the meter installed for such service with the amount in direct proportion to the meter rated flow capacity (with a residential meter rated at 20 gallons per minute as the assumed starting point) so that a meter with a rated flow of 40 gallons per minute would produce a Company Participation Refund of $100. contract, for which the Company's final actual cost of the main extension, completed in 1986, is $10,000. The Company's Participation Refund is $50 to each of the ten applicants, for a total Company investment $500 and $950 cost to each of the ten applicants. The 1986 "Customer Fair Share Cost" is therefore $950.

During 1987, four new persons locate along the main extension and apply for service. Each of the four is required to pay the 1986 Customer Fair Share Cost of $950 prior to connection. At the end of 1987, there are now 14 customers connected to the extension and the Company has received $3,800 (4 x $950) from the four new customers. The Company will add its Company Participation Refund of $200 (4 x $50) to the $3,800, and then distribute the $4,000 evenly to each of the 14 customers existing at the end of 1987 ($285.71 each). The 1987 Customer Fair Share Cost, to be utilized during 1988, is $664.28 [$$10,000 - ($50 \times 14) = $9,300$. $$9,300$ divided by 14 = $664.28]. This process continues as new customers may be added for a period of ten years from the completion of the main extension, except that a customer may not receive refunds which is total exceed the amount he originally paid.

- (3) The sum of the refunds made by the Company shall in no event exceed the original amount incurred by applicants for the extension. The right to a refund accrues to the owner of the premises on December 31 of the year for which Company Participation Refunds are calculated. If it shall reasonably appear that the donation of such property will cause the Company to incur income tax liability as a result thereof, the Developer shall also donate to the Company sufficient money to fund the concomitant income tax liability. Mains constructed within the boundaries of the subdivision shall be eligible for the Company Participation Refund of $50 per residential customers for a ten year period from the date of the installation of the main but shall not be eligible for Customer Fair Share Cost refund. Company Participation Refunds shall become due at the time water service is provided to the particular lot in the subdivision and shall be payable to the Developer, rather than the lot owner. If neither the Developer nor the successor to the development business claims the available refunds within three years of the date water service is made available to the lot for which the refund is due, and the Company has made reasonable effort to locate the Developer during that time, the Company shall retain the refund. EXAMPLE: Developer enters into an extension contract, for which the Company's final actual cost of the main extension, completed in 1986, is $12,000. The length of the extension is one thousand feet for a cost per foot of $12. Developer will have paid Company $12,000 in accordance with the contract.

During 1987, two new residents locate along the main extension and apply for service. The Company Participation Refund for each residential customer is $50. Each residential customer is required to pay a Customer Fair Share Cost of $1,150 prior to connection ($12 per foot times 100 feet, minus $50). At December 31, 1987, there are now two customers connected to the extension and the Company has received $2,300 (2 x $1,150) from the two new residential customers. - (i) The Company reserves the right to further extend the main and to connect mains on intersecting streets and easements. Customers connected to such further extensions shall not entitle the applicant(s) paying for the original extension to a refund for the connection of such customers.
- (j) Extensions made under this rule shall be of company approved pipe sized to meet expected future water service requirements along the route of the extension. If the Company chooses to size the extension larger in order to meet the Company's overall system requirements, the additional cost caused by the larger size of pipe shall be borne by the Company.
- (k) No interest will be paid by the Company on payments for the extension made by the applicant(s).
- (l) If extensions are required on private roads, streets, through private property, or on private property adjacent to public right-of-way, a property deed of easement must be furnished to the Company without cost to the Company, before the extension will be made.
