II. BASE CHARGE.

A. All customers who take steam for substantially 100% of their space heating needs and optionally for their air conditioning needs, shall pay a base charge, as determined below.

B. The base period is defined as January, February, March, October, November and December. The base consumption is defined as the steam consumed during the base period. The base percentage shall be the sum of the base consumption during the base periods for calendar years 1986, 1987 and 1988 divided by the sum of the total usage for calendar years 1986, 1987 and 1988, except in those cases where the current percentage varies from the average by more than five percent (5%). In those cases, the current percentage of winter use shall be the base percentage. "Base Usage" shall be determined by multiplying the base percentage times the total usage for calendar year 1988.

C. The annual base charge shall equal the dollars per Mlb of annual Base Usage determined by reference to the rate table below. The annual base charge as so determined shall be payable in twelve equal monthly installments (monthly base charge).

ANNUAL BASE CHARGE SCHEDULE

First 500 Mlbs of Base Usage	$11.75 per Mlbs
Next 1500 Mlbs of Base Usage	$10.00 per Mlbs
Next 4000 Mlbs of Base Usage	$9.75 per Mlbs
Base Usage greater than 6000 Mlbs	$9.40 per Mlbs

- D. New customers who do not have a <sup>MISSOURI</sup> record of use during the aforesaid <sup>Public Service Commission</sup> Base Usage estimated and mutually agreed upon prior to connection to the system, and shall be billed accordingly until they have completed an October through March period of connection to the Company during which the facility in question was at normal full occupancy. At the conclusion of this period, the Company shall review the actual consumption during the billing periods of October through March, adjust that consumption for both differences in the actual degree days and the average number of degree days experienced in the same periods in 1986-1988, adjust for any differences between the number of days in the Base Period and the number of days in the actual service period due to selection of meter reading dates, and shall then use this result as the annual base usage for future billings.
- E. Changes shall be made to the Base Usage in the event that usage in the most recent October through March period, after a degree day weather adjustment, varies by more than 15% from the 1988-1989 base usage amount, or from the initial usage amount as adjusted to actual experience, per Section II.
- F. Such changes shall become effective in the first billing period following their determination.

III. MINIMUM CHARGE.

Regardless of Base Usage, there shall be a $50 per month minimum base charge. The Company generally will install one meter, at its expense, to measure service to a customer's premises, but may elect to employ multiple meters. However,

RATES FOR STEAM SERVICE
PRODUCTION ADJUSTMENT COST CLAUSE ("PACC")

Applicable to Service Provided on January 1, 2015 and Thereafter

All sales to Customers qualifying under the General Rates for Steam Service (PSC Mo. No. 1) offered by Veolia Energy Kansas City, Inc. (the "Company"), except for the Customers receiving service under the Residential High Rise rate schedule, shall be subject to adjustment according to this Production Adjustment Cost Clause ("PACC") Rider.

I. AVAILABILITY.

Costs passed through this PACC Rider reflect ninety-five percent (95%) of the difference between actual fuel, purchased power, and consumable costs and these costs as set in base rates. The base PACC factor developed to reflect qualifying production costs is seven dollars and sixty-nine cents per thousand pounds of steam ($7.69/mlb). For the purpose of this PACC rider "production costs" are the fuel and purchased power and consumable costs fully defined in Sections III.A and III.B below.

The Company will file annual, with an option for semi-annual, rate adjustments to reflect 95% of the changes to production costs.

Many Customers purchase reduced or no steam during summer months. To mitigate potential cost shifting between Customers and/or Customer classes due to seasonally unique steam usage patterns, each PACC filing plus any reconciling adjustments, will be billed to each individual Customer in twelve (12) equal installments based on each Customer's actual steam usage during the originating accumulation period. PACC adjustment charges are in addition to all other charges otherwise billable to each Customer under applicable tariff provisions.

II. CALCULATIONS.

A. Current PACC Rate:

The Current PACC rate factor is designed to reflect each Customer's share of the variation in production costs for the most recent accumulation period. The difference between actual production costs and the amount of production costs covered by base rates (both on a dollar basis) is multiplied by 95% and then divided by the total metered steam sales during the accumulation period to quantify the PACC adjustment factor. To determine the amount of an individual Customer's responsibility, the PACC adjustment factor (on a $/mlb basis) is $PACC_t$  = PACC adjustment factor developed to reflect ninety-five percent of the variation in production costs for all steam sales during the accumulation period.

$$PACC_t = [95\% \times (FCAP - FCBR)] / BDAP_t$$

$PACC_i$  = Share of the variation in production costs for an individual tariff Customer during the most recent accumulation period, billable in twelve equal installments to each individual Customer during the twelve months recovery period.

$$PACC_i = PACC_t \times BDAP_i$$

Where:

FCAP = Actual production costs expressed as a total dollar amount during the accumulation period.

FCBR = Production costs covered by the PACC base factor [ $$7.69/\text{mlb} \times BDAP_i$ ].

$BDAP_t$  = Billing Determinants (mlb of steam sales) for all metered steam sales during the accumulation period, corresponding with the period of production cost variances.

$BDAP_i$  = Billing Determinants (mlb of steam sales) for an individual tariff Customer during the accumulation period, corresponding with the period of production cost variances.

95% = The percentage of the variance in production costs allocable to Customers.

B. Reconciling Adjustments:

At the end of the twelve (12) month recovery period for each accumulation period variance, the sum collected from all tariff Customers will be compared to the revenues intended to be collected from all tariff Customers. Any over-collection of intended revenues will be applied to Customer bills through a Reconciling Adjustment. The Company shall use an amortization period of twelve (12)
