NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED REPORT AND ORDER

Issue Date: March 24, 2014

The regulatory law judge is issuing a recommended report and order as attached. The recommended report and order includes material or documents that contain information relating directly to a specific customer. Therefore, the regulatory law judge is issuing a highly confidential version and a public version.

The recommended report and order is subject to comment from any affected party filed within ten days of this recommendation's issuance under 4 CSR 240-2.070(15)(H). That regulation provides that any comments opposing this recommended report and order must contain specific detailed grounds why the order is unlawful, unjust, or unreasonable.

Upon review of those comments, the commission may approve or reject this recommended report and order based on the existing record without further hearing. If the commission rejects this recommended report and order, the commission will issue its own order based on the evidence already submitted, or upon such additional evidence as the commission shall choose to receive.

Once the Commission approves this recommended report and order, or issues its own report and order, any interested person may ask the Commission to consider the report and order again by filing an application for rehearing with the Commission. An application for rehearing is required for any matter on which anyone seeks to appeal the report and order.

If the Commission denies the application for rehearing, or grants the rehearing but maintains the report and order, any interested person may seek judicial review by filing an appeal in the Missouri Court of Appeals.
