COMPLAINANT'S RESPONSE
TO SHOW CAUSE

COMES NOW, the complainant who states the following reasons as to why she did not participate in the July 20 prehearing conference:

1. An inadvertent calendar omission was made for the foresaid date.
 - a. It was not the intent nor is it the practice of the complainant to intentionally disregard or casually overlook scheduled dates of importance.
2. The complainant bears the recent passing of a parent.
 - a. Additionally, the complainant did encounter some health concerns during recent time.
3. The complainant did encounter a delay, electronically, in the receipt of staff report questions and their subsequent preparation for response.
4. Albeit, the complainant received copy of the respondent's request for phone conference some two days prior to the date, because the matter was not placed on calendar, as usual, the request appeared unwarranted.
5. The complainant has not missed any prior phone conferences, and has worked to ensure her scheduling and availability for such in the past.
6. The complainant desires that the commission set a date for the submission of all dispositive pleadings to be due within 90 days or so by the parties.

THEREFORE, due to the foresaid facts and reasons, the complainant requests that the commission not dismiss the action, and that the respondent's oral motion be denied. Regrets are extended to all for any inconvenience as a result of this calendar omission.

Respectfully submitted,

Certificate of Service
