On November 10, 2011, Kansas City Power and Light Company ("KCPL") submitted a motion "requesting that the Commission extend its existing authority to sell and trade SO₂ emissions allowances to the NO_x emissions allowances that will no longer be useable for compliance post-December 31, 2011, and record such sales proceeds in FERC account 254, to be flowed to customers over an amortization period to be determined in the next rate case with the unamortized balance to be used as an offset to ratebase." KCPL seeks expedited treatment (a Commission decision by November 23, 2011), and states that to facilitate this process it is serving its application on all parties to its most recent rate case.
