Can we lift C&I curtailment (sgs and lgs customers) and move residential from lowest to make comfortable back to thermostat 2 degrees. Also let us know about schools.

Justin Powers

Prices might be $600 a dth.

I think we conserve until further notice

Carter wants to start lifting as soon as possible. We are at step 5 of 5 in curtailment. Can we pull back small C&I? Or at least plan on it after 9am tomorrow?

Good luck gentlemen. Please shoot me a text if we lose customers so my team can coordinate with Staff, commission, and elected officials. Thanks. I hope I don't hear from you.

George Godat

GG Will do

You all handling outreach to mayors governor and psc?

Yes.

Don't you think we should curtail all C&i customer, including schools. Schools have off anyway. And curtailment just means shutting production for minimum buildings protection

That is what schools should be doing as well. We just need there thermostats on 50 instead of 78.

On it.

They will be closed for weather

On it.

They will be closed for weather anyway. Just need the custodian to go crank down the heat.

Use the failure of renewables to promote renewable.

Governor's office is aware. Joplin mayor has been contacted. Will have other mayor outreach. Contacted Sr staff, Silvey, and the rest of commissioner's.

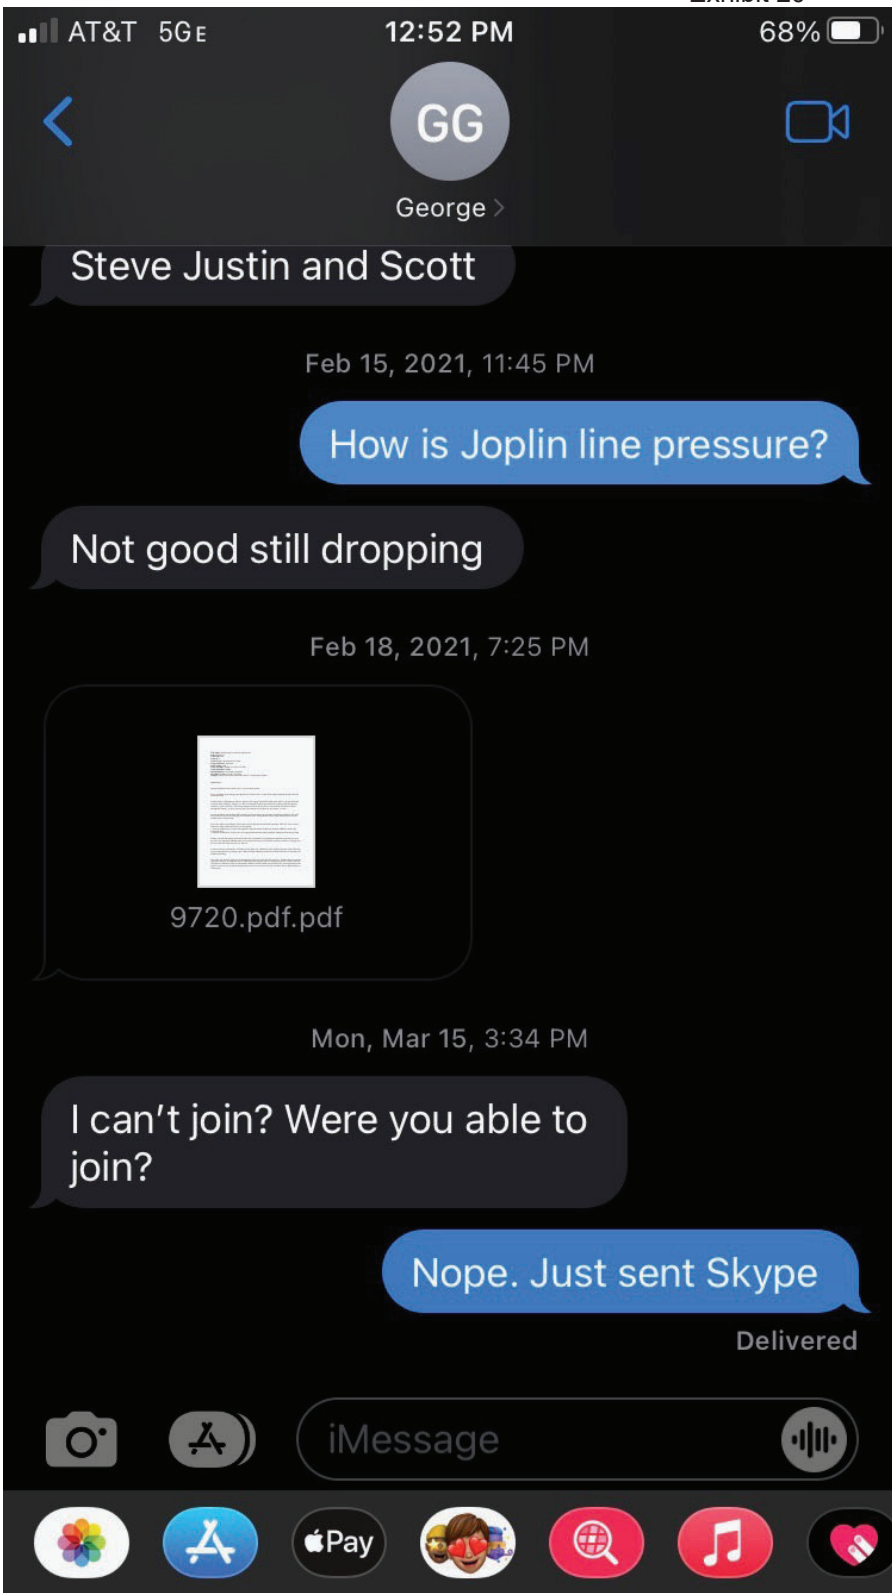

Thanks. Pressure continues to drop. Will start seeing outage around 2:30 am if the southern star system doesn't rebound.

Will only get worse then. As you know the standard 4am-6am suck.

So it can't physically flow to MRT because no volume or pressure to get it there.

Economics

I would say

EGT was trading $300 higher than prvl

MRT honestly tried to flow back into EGT but it physically cannot

Thanks.
