Yes, Ameren Missouri does coordinate our excavations during all projects. For each excavation projects, Ameren Missouri requires a detailed survey to be completed which allows us to coordinate the installation of our facilities with the other utilities in the area. Upon reviewing the survey information, if we find that there are utility crossings that require additional information, we will reach out to discuss the projects with the respective utilities. Additionally, Ameren Missouri is required to obtain permits for all excavation projects. Ameren Missouri coordinates with the inspection authorities in each respective area to help coordinate with any other stakeholder (utility, municipality, etc)
