REQUEST:

During the initial construction of Stateline did Liberty discover any archeological or cultural resources that could affect the siting of the unit?

RESPONSE:

Upon review of historical records and interviews with former plant personnel, no record has been found of any discovery of archeological or cultural resources that would affect the siting of the unit. Before installation or construction of the unit, Empire will conduct the appropriate cultural resource studies as required by regulations, including but not limited to pedestrian surveys and systematic shovel testing.
