9	this rate case on May 26, 2023?
10	A.	I am.
11	EXECUTIVE SUMMARY
12	Q.	What is the purpose of your surrebuttal testimony?
13	A.	I am responding to the rebuttal testimony of Confluence Rivers Utility Operating
14	Company, Inc.'s ("Confluence") witness Todd Thomas and the Office of the Public Counsel's
15	("OPC") witness Dr. Geoff Marke concerning customer service and more specifically customer
16	surveys. I will also address the complaint log required by rule 20 CSR 4240-13.040(5)(B).
17	CHOTOMEI
17		R OPINION SURVEYS
18	Q.	What was your recommendation regarding customer opinion surveys?
19	A.	I recommended that Confluence should examine methods available to solicit the
20	opinions of its customers regarding the service that they are receiving.
21	Q.	What was Confluence's response to this recommendation?

- A. Mr. Thomas stated, "It is my opinion that customer opinion surveys, within the utility industry, are typically not cost effective." 1
  - Q. Did he explain why Confluence feels this way?
- A. Mr. Thomas stated that, "customers that will participate in such surveys generally have a negative opinion of their monopoly utility.<sup>2</sup>" He continued that, "customers typically resent being limited to a single monopoly provider, being subjected to rate increases over which they feel they have no input; or service plans that don't meet their specific desires." Mr. Thomas reiterated, that because of this, given the lack of benefit to such customer surveys, Confluence Rivers does not believe that they justify the cost.<sup>4</sup>
  - Q. Did Mr. Thomas provide any cost analysis for Confluence's conclusion?
  - A. No cost analysis was provided.
  - Q. What is your response to this conclusion?
- A. I do not agree with Mr. Thomas' conclusion. Confluence should be eliciting feedback due to the reasons he gave for not performing customer surveys. If customers of Confluence had a choice, they could express their feedback by canceling service and getting another provider. Companies that have competition need that feedback or they will lose customers.

Customers without a choice in a service provider need to express their feedback in other ways. That is one of the reasons the Commission orders local public hearings ("LPHs"), to provide customers a chance to give feedback on service quality, rates/rate plans, and other - issues concerning customers. This feedback is helpful to the Commission as it provides a foundation for informed decision-making. Utilities should want that feedback on a day-to-day basis, so they can continuously make improvements and provide quality customer service.

- Q. Did Mr. Thomas testify that Confluence had any experience performing customer surveys to back up their views about them?
- A. Yes. Mr. Thomas stated they performed a customer survey in a Louisiana service area in which they sent out 25 emails. Of those 25 emails, only 15 customers opened the email, 6 people responded, and most of the comments concerned the rates charged for water service. He concluded that the result of that survey is consistent with Confluence's views on customer opinion surveys.<sup>5</sup>
  - Q. Do you have a different view of the email survey they performed in Louisiana?
- A. Besides being a very small sample size for a business to develop an opinion on the future use of customer surveys, the email survey Confluence performed was very successful. Of the 25 customers sent this email survey, 60% opened the email; and the average email survey open rate for all industries is a little over 21%. Also, the average percentage of people who respond to an email survey is about 6%. Confluence's email survey achieved a 24% customer response rate, four times the average rate.

Finally, Mr. Thomas stated "most" of the customers responded concerning rates, which means that other areas were also discussed. For little more than developing a survey and sending

- it through email, Confluence was able to get customer feedback. Staff reiterates that customer feedback is important and is vital for the overall improvements customers deserve.
  - Q. What specifically concerns you about Confluence's response regarding customer surveys?
  - A. There are several concerns, but the biggest is that Confluence does not see the obvious benefit of customer feedback. One other concern is that the only official feedback they are receiving is from LPHs during rate cases or from customers who take the initiative to file complaints.
  - Q, There was customer witness testimony given at the LPHs concerning some billing errors and communication issues. These issues included not being notified of planned outages, boil orders and not having phone calls returned. Was this customer feedback addressed by a Company witness in rebuttal testimony?
  - A. Yes. The President of Confluence, witness, Josiah Cox, stated that for the billing errors, they took the customer's information down and they are working through the individual issues.

He added that, "he takes these issues regarding customer communications seriously<sup>8</sup>." Among other things, he stated that changes to their website<sup>9</sup>, the creation of a communications department<sup>10</sup> and notification process changes with Confluence's contract engineering team should show improvement.<sup>11</sup>

Q. Does that message match the testimony filed by Mr. Thomas?

A. No. On one hand you have the President of Confluence stating he takes feedback provided at LPHs seriously, and on the other hand, the Senior VP whose duties include engaging and overseeing customer service providers<sup>12</sup> and whom the director of customer experience reports to, stating that feedback through surveys lacks benefit and does not justify the cost. It's baffling that Confluence is of the opinion that feedback through surveys lack benefit. It appears that Confluence only takes customer feedback seriously when a customer provides testimony or when a complaint is filed with the Commission.

Confluence has agreed with my recommendations to start meeting with Staff on a quarterly basis and to provide additional monthly call center reporting metrics to Staff. These additions should be helpful going forward to improve communications between Staff and Confluence.

For its customer's sake, I hope Confluence changes its view about what its customers have to say and as a result improves the communications with its customers.

- Q. Did OPC agree with your recommendation about Confluence looking into methods to perform customer surveys?
- A. Yes and no. Although Dr. Geoff Marke agreed with Staff, Dr. Marke testified that Staff did not go far enough with its recommendation. He continued

The Company should submit a competitive RFP<sup>13</sup> for a third-party customer opinion survey throughout each of its systems. The RFP should be based, in part, on feedback given to the Company from Staff and OPC. The selection of the contract will be based on a three-way vote from the Staff, OPC, and the Company. If a majority decision cannot be reached, the results will be presented to the Commission for selection.<sup>14</sup>

Q. Do you agree with Dr. Marke that your recommendation did not go far enough?

&lt;sup>13</sup> Request for proposal.

Request for proposar.

A. After reading Mr. Thomas' response, yes. Confluence should be required to work with Staff and OPC to submit a competitive RFP for a third party customer survey and this survey should be submitted within one year of rates going into effect. The results of the customer survey should be made public.

COMPLAINT DOCUMENTATION

- Q. In your direct testimony, you pointed out that for two rate cases in row, Confluence had not complied with the Commission rule<sup>15</sup> requiring utilities to keep a list of complaints, and you recommended they comply with that Commission rule. Did Mr. Thomas address that recommendation?
- A. He stated several things, including that Confluence is, "for the most part" 16, following the rule. He stated that I referenced two complaints that were not listed on the log and that clearly improvements can be made in the Company's complaint documentation process.
  - Q. What is your response to those statements?
- A. It is concerning that Confluence has not complied with Commission rules in two consecutive rate cases, and a Senior VP's response is that they are following the rules "for the most part."

To correct my direct testimony, there were 22, not 23, complaints listed on the complaint log Confluence provided from July 2021 through of June 2023 that were in the Electronic Filing Information System ("EFIS"). Although Staff referenced two missing complaints, Confluence

- 1 was missing  $10^{17}$  complaints on its complaint log that were complaints recorded in EFIS. That
- 2 is over 30% of EFIS complaints concerning Confluence that were not logged by Confluence,
- 3 as required by Commission rule. Staff is relieved that Mr. Thomas realizes that, "clearly...
- 4 improvements can be made. 18",
  - Q. Does this conclude your surrebuttal testimony?
- 6 A. Yes, it does.
